

ABSTRACT

This invention provides a method for converting materials for stabilizing surfaces of semiconductor nanoparticles. In this method, surfaces of semiconductor nanoparticles are first modified and then dissolved by photoetching in the presence of materials for stabilization to obtain nanoparticles that are stabilized in an aqueous solution.